Packing and Shipping:

Packaging and Shipping

LED Flood Light products are typically shipped in protective boxes. They are placed in cardboard boxes and lined with bubble wrap or foam to protect them from impact. The cardboard boxes are then sealed with tape to ensure that the product remains secure during shipment.

The boxes are labeled with the product name, weight, and other relevant information. This helps the shipping company to properly handle the product and ensure it is delivered to the correct destination.

The boxes are then grouped together and placed onto pallets for shipping. The pallets are then securely strapped and shrink-wrapped before being loaded onto a truck for delivery.
